STATEMENT

This bill enhances the penalties for luring a child with the intent to commit a criminal offense against the child. The bill also requires that registered sex offenders be informed of the penalties for committing certain sex offenses.

Under current law, luring a child is a crime of the second degree, punishable by five to 10 years imprisonment, a fine of up to $150,000, or both. Second degree crimes carry a presumption that the court will sentence the offender to a term of incarceration, unless that presumption is overcome by the offender. An offender who is sentenced to incarceration receives a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment without parole eligibility. In addition, current law prohibits the court from suspending or making any other non-custodial disposition of a second or subsequent offender.

Under the provisions of this bill, all offenders convicted of luring a child would receive a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment of one-third to one-half of the sentence imposed, or five years, whichever is greater, during which the defendant would not be eligible for parole. The court is not permitted to suspend or make any other non-custodial disposition of any offender convicted of luring a child.

Current law also provides that an offender convicted of luring a child who has a previous conviction for aggravated sexual assault, sexual assault, aggravated criminal sexual contact, or endangering the welfare of a child is to be sentenced to a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment of five years, during which the offender is not eligible for parole. Under this bill, a person convicted of luring a child who had been previously convicted of one of the foregoing crimes will be required to serve 85 percent of the sentence imposed, or five years, whichever is greater, during which he or she would not be eligible for parole.

Finally, the bill requires that a sex offender receive certain information whenever registering or verifying his or her address. The bill requires the registered sex offender to be informed, in accordance with procedures established by the Attorney General, of the penalties for subsequent sex offenses, including, but not limited to luring a child, aggravated sexual assault, sexual assault, aggravated criminal sexual contact, and criminal sexual contact. This information is to be provided in addition to the information regarding the registration and verification requirements of Megan's Law provided under current law.
