STATEMENT

This bill provides certain rights to individuals employed to provide domestic services.

Under the bill, "domestic service" means domestic service as an employee in a private home of the employer, such as service as a babysitter, nanny, health aide, private nurse, maid, caretaker, or yard worker, but does not include any individual performing occasional baby-sitting or sporadic work in and around the house, including but not limited to, shoveling snow or washing windows. However, an individual working in the individual's home or in the home of a member of the individual's family is not considered an employee providing domestic services.

The bill amends the "Law Against Discrimination" (LAD), P.L.1945, c.169 (C.10:5-1 et seq.) to prohibit discrimination against employees who provide domestic services.

While current law provides for unemployment insurance, workers' compensation, minimum rate of compensation, and leave for employees who provide domestic services, employees who provide domestic services are not entitled to protections under the LAD. Due to the private nature of the work performed, these employees are in a particularly vulnerable position if they face discrimination from their employers.

Additionally, this bill removes the exemption of part-time employees primarily engaged in the care and tending of children in the home of the employer from the requirement to pay the minimum wage.

Moreover, this bill requires employers to provide employees who provide domestic services with one day of rest each calendar week.

Finally, the bill updates an employment discrimination law that excluded domestic service employees.

This bill, if enacted, would provide individuals employed to provide domestic services with various rights and protections under the LAD and State employment and labor laws.
